

ABSTRACT

A method of enhancing an immune response to an antigen is provided. The method involves augmenting the level of a TAP molecule in a target cell bearing the antigen. Preferably, the TAP molecules enhanced by administering a nucleic acid sequence encoding a TAP-1 and/or TAP-2 molecule. The method is useful in treating infectious diseases and cancer.

SEARCHED
INDEXED
SERIALIZED
FILED
JULY 10 1991
U.S. PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICE